Let's Start!

What's "the Underground"? It's London's subway!

Learning Outcome

Accurately use information about directions to places in a limited range of social situations.

Can Do Statements

- I can talk about travel and transportation.
- I can ask and give directions.
- I can ask what, when, where questions.

Ask your partner:

- How do you travel around your city?
- What cities have subways?
- What is good about subways?

Let's Explore!

Sally wants to take the subway. Which station? Which line?

* A subway "line" is the series of subway stations that a train visits from beginning to end.

Instructions: Read the text aloud.

Sally: Excuse me, I'm a bit lost.

Passerby: How can I help?

Sally: Can you show me where we are on this map?

Passerby: Sure. We're right here, on Upper Ground Street, beside Bernie Spain Gardens. Where do you want to go?

Sally: I'm going to the London Eye. Why is it not on the map?

Passerby: It's a new structure. Go straight down Upper Ground. It becomes Belvedere Road. Then walk through Jubilee Gardens.

Sally: Where is the closest subway station?

Passerby: The Underground is a bit far from here.

Sally: Oh, the Underground? I'm not from London.

Passerby: It's also called the Tube. When did you arrive?

Sally: Last week.

Passerby: Welcome! You can also take the #381 bus to the station.

Sally: Which station?

Passerby: County Hall Station.

Sally: Thank you!

Passerby: You're most welcome.

Let's Practice!

Sally has many questions about London.

Instructions: Draw a line from the question on the left with the response on the right.

Learning Points

Asking for and Giving Directions

You can ask for directions using modals like could or can:

Could you tell me how to get to ... ?
Can you show me where we are on this map?
Can you tell me where ... is?

You can also ask for directions using Wh-question words:

Where is the museum?

You can give directions using Imperatives:

Go straight down Upper Ground.
Then, walk through Jubilee Gardens.

When a street changes name, you say "it becomes". This is an example of the Simple Present tense.

Upper Grand becomes Belvedere Road.

There are many ways to say "go straight". Here are some of them:

Go straight ahead.
Go straight (up, down) ... street.
Walk (up, down) ... street.
Continue straight until ... street.
Keep going straight till ...
Head up ... street.
